to the North of the line of Bar Marks. Two Balls; to show that she is in a position to the South of the line of Bar Marks. The Anding will as a rule be moored with four, or possibly more, anchors, the positions of which will generally be marked by wooden spar buoys painted red. The buoys will be attached | ELLWOOD'S PATENT AIR-CHAMBER HELMETS to the anchors by the shortest lengths of chain which it may be found practicable to use; as, however, they are liable to be carried away, or to be swept under by the current, absolute reliance cannot be placed on their being always It is further notified that the depth signalled from Harbour Master's Wusung Station is the depth in the Channel in the line of the Bar Marks: allowance is not made for the height of the mushroom anchors above the level of the bed; this may be taken to be about three feet. Night signals to indicate the depth will not be shown when the Dredger is on the Bar. It is however intended to remove her during the strong Spring tides in the summer months.

Attention is again drawn to the necessity that all steamers should go dead slow when passing the Dredger, whether she is actually at work or not; and all responsibility for damage or loss resulting from an infringement of this rule will rest with the offending vessel. E. V. BRENAN,

"Where the carcase is, there also will the eagles be gathered together." Chins is the great carcase of Asia and round her the eagles of Europe and America press and jostle one fine another. England is entrenched at Hongkong and many a fat slice has she carried away. And now she is stretching out another claw through Thibet. America has half of Shanghai, and to and from San Francisco the bird of prey passes regularly in his flight. France is trying hard o carry off her share of the carcase through Tougking, and Port Arthur in the north is a big piece fallen to the lot of a French syndicate. Herr Krupp represents Germany's chief plunder, and the Yamen of Li Hung-chang at Tientsin is a nest of commercial lutrique on behalf of the Fatherland. And Russia is laying a heavy paw 1 upon China from the north. All this is natural | lamentsmough, and so far as England and America are sencerned it is the inevitable flow of trade in the channels of least resistance. But amount the birds around this Asiatic carcase there is a beetle among the birds of prey there is a parasite. The criticism is continued to-day of the policy pursued by the Chinese Minister to Washington the negotiation of the treaty with the United States. The treaty has luckily fallen through on account of the insertion therein of a clause hat no commensation will be payable to any Chinese resident in the States, and of the restriction to Chinese emigration.

the book was finished in 1887. The Hungarian post, Maurice Jokai, who was an intimate friend and companion of the late Prince Rudolph, has just made a contribution to the solution of what is still the mysterious tragedy of Meyerling. The poet's theory is that the Crown Prince, seeing public opinion going against what he conceived to be his mission, deliberately sacrificed himself to the peace of the world. In support of this idea he cites two scraps of conversation, in one of which Prince Rudolph, referring to the floating rumours about his domestic relations, said. "I love my family This poet too was deleful, for, apostrophizing bayond everything, and tell those who say the opposite that they do not speak the truth." The other was, "Ah! M. Muscart has brought to the attention o the Société Française de Physique some experiments made by him with a view of determining how far incandescent lamps may be a source of danger when in the immediate vicinity of inflam mable materials. Some 32 candle power incandescent lamps were tightly enveloped in cloth others in wadding with the gum surface remov ed, and others again were placed in the folds of some old stage scenery. In no case was there any charring or undue heating. An extra Tobacco, according to an Arabic legend translated in the "La Commedia Umana." is no older than the founder of Islam. The prophet was once travelling across the desert of Yemen. It was winter, and all the rentiles which infest the little desert were asleep. Suddenly the prophet's horse trod upon a viper, and apparently wounded it. Mahommed, full of mercy, got down from his horse, and taking up the viper put it into sleeve hoping that the warmth would restore it. The viper soon began to stir. Incapable of gratitude, like the serpent which was in beginning, it said to Mahommed Reverend prophet, I will bite thee!" "Nay, replied the mild prophet, "that would be the blackest ingratitude, poor reptile, to repay a good deed with an evil deed." "Nevertheless," said the viper. " I shall do it: I swear by God the Almighty that I will bite thee!" When Mahommed heard the name of Allah he dared not prolong the dispute, but, bowing his head with reverence said-" His name be praised for ever; you and Barometer 1 both belong to Him: from Him we both re- Temperature peived life." and he offered the viper his hand. violent pain compelled him to fling the viper from his sleeve and to curse it in the name of Allah The prophet then snoked the viper's poison from the wound and spat it out upon the sand A magnificent plant immediately aprung up on the spot where the prophet's sacred caliva had fallen. One of his disciples gathered some of its leaves and burned them as an offering to God for the rescue of his prophet. Mahommed and his companions were delighted with the splendid aroms of the burnt offering as its smoke ascended towards heaven. From that day to this all the faithful of Islam bave taken pleasure in the plant whose taste and soent partakes in an equal degree of the bitterness of the viper's poison and the sweetness of the hely prophet's spittle.

PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at Daily Press Office. Hongkong.

For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to expres: the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography shortly expected here, will load for the above Ports, and will have quick despatch.

torized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted forcensideration:-Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli-cations and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-

975 the work is so complete, that a reference t pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion.
